

DARK HORSE HOOPS PREMIUM REPORT

Name: Cameron Hunt Pos: Pg/Sg FG%: .507 Agent: Quorum Sports Agency Key Facts
College: Southwestern PPG: 31.5 3Pt%: .418 Guardian: On Request -NAIA player of the year
Height: 6'5 Reb: 4.8 Ast:TO-2:1 Twitter: Camhunt24
Weight: 210lbs Ast: 6.8 Stl: 1.0 Age: 22

Quick Scout

STRENGTHS:

- Scores at all 3 levels
- Great in Pick & Roll
- Decision making
- Competes hard

WEAKNESSES:

- Lateral Quickness
- Explosion off the bounce
- Off-ball effectiveness

On Offense: Hunt is a wiry left-handed combo guard who developed into an elite scorer off the dribble at the NAIA level. Despite only average quickness, he possesses a crafty and fluid crossover that allowed him to get into the paint at will against smaller guards. Additionally, he's an adept left-handed finisher who would regularly go directly over guards and even challenge longer wings at the rim with ease. Excellent decision maker in the pick-&-roll situations who's quick to make accurate passes against rotating defenders. Developed into a reliable shooter in both spot-up and live dribble situations. Dangerous step-back jumper that should be just as difficult to guard at the next level. He's only an average athlete and I have questions about his ability to get to the rim as easily against bigger and quicker defenders at the pro level. Has a relatively high dribble for a point guard that can lead to turnovers. Will occasionally force passes and needs to move off the ball more often when he's spending time at the 2. Despite concerns about his quickness as a point guard, he really understands how to put pressure on a defense from all over the court and should still score effectively. Needs more creativity attacking when forced right

On Defense: Legitimate 6'5 with long arms and the strength to guard wings. Played aggressive defense when engaged and wasn't afraid to get into passing lanes. Rested on this side of the floor at times this season because of the role he played on offense. Struggled at times to contain quicker guards but recovered well with his length. Hard screens completely took him out of plays, and he will have to do a better job at fighting through them. High level competitor who takes his matchups personally.

Professional Role: Pick & Roll Shot Creator

A unique athlete who really moves like a wing with guard skills. He is going to be at his best attacking defenders out of screens where his craftiness off the bounce regularly terrorized posts who didn't respect his ability to hit shots off the dribble. Has never played with an elite rolling big-man and could look even more dangerous attacking the rim with a vertical floor spacer.

Optimal Play Style

Hunt will be awesome in an up-tempo offense that allows him to attack angles and utilize his effective pull-up game on defenses that don't have time to force him right or force him off the ball. He would excel with another dynamic guard who would take the more athletic perimeter defender off him.

Off the Court

Fiery competitor who was well liked by teammates I spoke with. Relatively quiet person off the court and its been difficult to gauge any of his other interests or demeanor outside of the basketball gym. Definitely passionate to play professionally and will be eager for that challenge that the next level brings for him.

Summary

Cameron Hunt will have to work much harder at the next level to get to his spots, but with a solid IQ and a knack for generating good looks for himself and others, he should still benefit pro offenses in a multitude of ways as a lead guard.

